JAMES ALEXANDER HAMILTON

TO MY FOLKS

Dear Cousins: '

As I knew but little relative to the Hamilton family, of which I have the honor of being a member other than that of my father's, some years since I conceived the idea of knowing more. With that end in view I started a correspondence with Hugh Cunningham Hamilton, my father's younger brother, who then lived at Lenoir, North Carolina, procured from him the name and possible address of James Hamilton, a son of his uncle John Hamilton, as Tallico Junction, Tennessee. I wrote to him and after a time I received a letter from Joseph W. Hamilton, a nephew, of that address, informing me that his uncle James had departed this life and giving me information as to other members of the Hamilton family, to a few of whom I wrote, receiving replies. However, owing to the press of business, could not spare the time to pursue the correspondence. A few years later was differently situated and spent a four weeks' vacation with my North Carolina and Tennessee relatives; returned feeling that had I remained a much longer time, I would not have worn out my welcome. From that time have spent as much time as possible gathering information. While I have acquired a mass of information, there is more that I would have been much pleased to have obtained. In subsequent vacations have visited in North Carolina and Tennessee, making many pleasant and enjoyable acquaintances; have also made many pleasant acquaintances by letter and have continued a correspondence with a goodly number. Have found relatives in a larger portion of the States of the Union. I desire to thank all who have rendered assistance in my undertaking as well as all those who have promptly responded to my letters of inquiry.

JAMES ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

Indianapolis, Ind., November 1, 1921.

A Genealogy of the Descendents of Hugh Hamilton

QUOTING from Chambers Encyclopedia, "The first known of the name of Hamilton was Walter Fitz-Gilbert (son of Gilbert), called Hamilton, who in 1296 held lands in Lanarkshire, and swore fealty to King Edward I, of England." The family subsequently became very prominent in the affairs of both Scotland as well as that of Great Britain, intermarrying with the Royal Family and that of the Douglas Family. One branch of the Hamilton Family moved into the north of Ireland and became somewhat prominent. The larger portion of that name settling in what is now the United States were from Ireland. Quite a number became converts to the teachings of William Penn, and came over with him, settling in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. One Andrew Hamilton was made Governor of the Colony of Pennsylvania; he, however, was a resident of New Jersey. At the time of the beginning of the Revolutionary War, a James Hamilton, of Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, was the Governor of that colony, and continued to live in Lancaster County during the war.

During the early part of the eighteenth century there was a large and continuous migration from the north of Ireland, consisting of the Hamiltons, Wallaces, Dixons, Cunninghams, Milligans, Dicksons, Waynes and others who settled mostly in the counties of Chester, Lancaster, York and the immediate surrounding counties of Pennsylvania.

Tradition has it that four brothers of the name of Hamilton came over from Ireland, possibly in the seventeen thirties, and that one of them located in Lancaster or York County, having left his wife in Ireland; she came over later with her child Hugh and found that her husband had met death by some accident. She settled in York County. Hugh Hamilton was possibly an only child, as I have learned of his having no relatives other than cousins. Hugh Hamilton was married about 1760 to Margaret Dickson, daughter of James Dickson, of York County, Pennsylvania, whose will bore date of 1768. To Hugh and Margaret were born four sons, as follows:

James Hamilton, born September 29, 1761, as shown by family Bible, and in 1763 as shown by pension.

John Hamilton was born in York County, Pennsylvania.

William Hamilton was born in York County, Pennsylvania.

Hugh Hamilton was born in York County, Pennsylvania.

Early in 1770 Hugh with his family moved from York County, Pennsylvania, to Mecklenberg County, North Carolina, and took up land in that part now embraced in Cabarris, Northeast from Charlotte and Northwest from Concord; the same being almost in the extreme Northwestern part of Cabarris County. Not long after locating there he had the misfortune to be hurt in assisting a neighbor to build a house or barn. He did not think that he was seriously hurt, but one of his neighbors insisted on going with him to his home, and when he had reached a point within half a mile of his home, as it would take his neighbor a considerable distance out of his way to go farther with him, he insisted that he was all right and could get home without further assistance and prevailed on him to leave him. Not having reached home the next morning, search was made and he was found dead close to a spring a short distance from where the neighbor had left him; having been more seriously hurt than he supposed. He left his widow and his four children above named. His widow was subsequently married to a man named Phar or Farr, but pronounced Farr. They had six sons and four daughters. The sons subsequently removed to Tennessee.

JAMES HAMILTON, SON OF HUGH HAMILTON, THE FIRST

James Hamilton enlisted June 16, 1780, in the Company of Samuel Givens, in Col. George Alexander's Regiment, for service in the Revolutionary War. He was taken prisoner at the Battle of Camden, South Carolina, August 16, 1780; imprisoned in a prison ship at Charleston, South Carolina, until July 26, 1781, almost one year, when he was released and mustered out of the service. After the close of the war he returned to York County, Pennsylvania, and there learned and followed the gunsmithing trade. August 23, 1799, he was married to Martha Wallace, a daughter of John Wallace, in Chester County, Pennsylvania, and located at Peach Bottom, York County, Pennsylvania, and continued to live there until after the death of his mother in 1814. He became the owner of part of his father's farm in Cabarris County, North Carolina, when he moved back there. He settled on his portion of the farm and continued to live there until his death, October 21, 1842, at the age of a little more than seventy-nine years. He left surviving him, his widow and four sons and two daughters—John Wallace Hamilton, James Lot Dixon Hamilton, Thomas Henderson Hamilton, Hugh Cunningham Hamilton, Louisa Hamilton and Sarah Jane Hamilton. The widow continued to live on the farm in Cabarris County until her death, April 24, 1866, at the age of eighty-nine years, four months and fourteen days.

John Wallace Hamilton, the oldest son of James Hamilton, was born June 5, 1800, at Peach Bottom, York County, Pennsylvania, he moved with his parents to Cabarris County, North Carolina, in 1814. Soon after locating there he procured employment with General Paul Barringer, at Concord, North Carolina, who was engaged in the general merchandising business as well as trading for and buying gold. His employer was so well satisfied with him, that he was, at an early age, made a partner in the business, and so continued until 1833, when he removed to Baltimore, Maryland, where he engaged in the mercantile business until 1835; he then removed to Indianapolis, Indiana, arriving there October 27, 1835, and engaged in general merchandising. He failed in business during the panic of 1837. He refused to take the benefit of the then existing Bankruptcy Laws and subsequently paid all his indebtedness. He continued to live in Indianapolis until his death, May 28, 1867. During his life he took an active interest in politics, both in North Carolina and in Indiana; being a Whig as long as that party existed. He served one term as Sheriff of Cabarris County, North Carolina; was commissioned as a Major in the North Carolina Militia by Hutchings G. Burton, Governor of that State, in 1825; was an Aid on the Staff of General Paul Barringer; in 1840 was elected Auditor of Marion County, Indiana, being the first Auditor of that County, and was re-elected for two additional terms, even when the county was adverse in politics as to all other Whig candidates for office at each election. The first two terms were for five years and the last for four years. He served continuously for fourteen years, retiring from said office in 1855. Was then employed as Land Agent of the Junction Railroad, now being the Cincinnati and Dayton Railroad into Indianapolis. On November 22, 1855, he was licensed to practice law in the Courts of Marion County, Indiana.

As the office of Auditor the first few years did not pay an amount sufficient to support himself and family, he was compelled to carry on the business of a broker and insurance agent, confining himself to the duties of auditor strictly within the hours required under the law, from 10:00 A. M. to 4 P. M., leaving the early morning and evening hours to attend to his other business matters. He had the reputation of being the best insurance agent at that time in the West.

He was noted for his honesty, uprightness and integrity. He was a Presbyterian in his religious beliefs, as his ancestors had been before him, taking an active part in church work. At the time of his death he was an Elder in the Third Presbyterian Church, now known as the Tabernacle Church.

He was three times married. First to Jane Sadler, of York County, South Carolina, November 20, 1827. She died at Concord, North Carolina, in the Fall of 1828. When about fifteen years of age he was employed under his father in the Auditor's Office, and so continued in that office until 1856, when he was employed as bookkeeper at the Greenleaf & Company Foundry and Iron Works. Leaving there, he engaged in the drug business with his brother, Charles M., at Galesburg, Illinois, where he continued for almost six months; not liking that business, he sold his interest to his brother, Charles, and returned to Indianapolis, and he was again employed in the Auditor's Office, where he continued until he himself was elected Auditor of the County for a term of four years. After expiration of his term of office as Auditor, he was elected to the Board of Aldermen of the City of Indianapolis. The Board of Aldermen having by law been abolished, he was elected a councilman of said city. Subsequently he was employed in matters in which his knowledge of county and city affairs was of utility. Charles Monserrat Hamilton was early employed in the drug store of William Hannaman, in Indianapolis, and remained with him until he was nineteen. He was employed for a few months in various matters that kept him out of doors. When not quite twenty years of age, he purchased a drug store at the then small town of Kokomo, Indiana, and was successful in making money. On account of his health, he was compelled to sell out the business; afterward engaging in the same business at Galesburg, Illinois, and was again successful, but his health not improving he went South, receiving no benefit he returned to Indianapolis, Indiana, where he died March 5, 1860, at the age of twenty-five. He was married to Sarah Maria Waterman, at Kokomo, Indiana, March 19, 1856. The issue from this marriage was Henry Dana Hamilton, born December 8, 1857, at Galesburg, Illinois. In 1864 he enlisted in Company "F" under Captain Achenbach, in the 132d Regiment of Indiana Volunteer Infantry, commanded by Colonel Samuel C. Vance. The Regiment was in no engagement but did a great amount of guard duty, being first located at Nashville, Tennessee, then at Stevenson, Alabama, then at Tullahoma, Tennessee, and again at Nashville, Tennessee. The enlistment was for a one hundred days, but was out almost four months. On the death of his father he was elected County Librarian and held that position until 1870, when he resigned. January 3, 1869, he was employed in the Sheriff's Office of Marion County, Indiana, and continued so employed until December 10, 1886, and during the major part of that time was Chief Deputy. While a staunch Republican in politics, he served under two Democratic sheriffs. In 1894 the newly elected Republican sheriff insisted on having his services, he finally consented to go back into that office long enough to effect a thorough organization of the office force, which he did, taking charge December 10, 1894, and continued to March 1, 1895. Soon after retiring from the sheriff's office, in 1886, he took employment with the Indianapolis Lounge Co., afterwards taking an interest in that company. He made money; however, the panic of 1893 came on, the business became a failure, and in 1897 he disposed of his interest, leaving him nothing except an indebtedness of about $1,200.00 and no assets out of which to pay. On August 1, 1897, took employment with George B. Yandes and continued with him until his death February 20, 1913. Under the provisions of the will of George B. Yandes, there was a bequest of $5,000.00 to James A. Hamilton, and also a stipulation that he should continue in the employ of his executors for two years. “A meeting was recently held by a number of the young men of Cabarris County to nominate a Vice-President in the place of John

Sargent, who was nominated by the Baltimore Convention. At which meeting John M. Cannon was called to the chair, and John Still, Jr., appointed Secretary. The object of the meeting having been explained by John A. Cannon, on motion of Henry Furr, William L. Young, Allison Furr, Robert A. Young, John A. Cannon and Henry Furr were appointed a Committee to draft suitable resolutions for the meeting. Who having retired a few minutes, reported the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted.

Resolved, That we disapprove of the nomination of John Sargent, of Pennsylvania, as Vice-President of the United States.

Resolved, That we disapprove of a secret meeting recently held by a few of the citizens of Cabarris County, in the town of Concord, to appoint a delegate to the National Republican Convention, recently held in Baltimore.

Because, We disapprove of the various resolutions adopted at that meeting.

Resolved, That we nominate Maj. J. W. Hamilton, of this County, as a candidate for Vice-President of the United States in preference to John Sargent, of Pennsylvania.

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this meeting that the ability and popularity of Maj. J. W. Hamilton, of North Carolina, point him out as the most suitable candidate for the Vice-Presidency, and the one most likely to aid our next Chief Magistrate to preserve the peace and harmony of these United States, and that this meeting has entire confidence in his politics, his patriotism and his integrity.

Resolved, That the young men in other counties within this State be requested to concur in the appointment.

HUGH HAMILTON, JR., THE YOUNGEST SON OF HUGH HAMILTON

Hugh Hamilton, Jr., the youngest son of Hugh Hamilton, who first located in what is now the United States, removed from Cabarris County, North Carolina, either in 1831 or 1832, into Buncomb County, North Carolina, where he located on a farm. Being in Asheville, the county seat of that county, I examined the records and found that for a few years there was a Hugh Hamilton paid taxes on a farm in that county, and that later his name disappeared from the records; afterwards learned that Hugh had removed to McMinn County, Tennessee, and that his family consisted of himself, wife and three or four daughters. All these remained and died single with the exception of one, Louisa Hamilton, who was married September 14, 1837, to her cousin, James Hamilton. This Hugh, to distinguish him from his nephew, Hugh S., was always designated "Buncomb Hugh," after his removal to Tennessee.
